Number 55, May 2010

Cambs & Hunts news

Several victories for Cambs & Hunts this season: the 'A' team won the 2009/10 Eastern Counties League, Cambridge University got a clean sweep of the Portland Bowl and Varsity Matches, Chris Jagger won the National Pairs, and Fred Allen and Roger Salmon won the Charity Challenge Cup.

In county competitions, Norman Hutchinson won the Individual, Marion & Trevor King won the Pairs, Peter Bhagat and Mike Seaver won the Swiss Pairs, and Catherine Poulson & Juliet Gadney won the Novice Pairs.

Our clubs have not had too many teething problems with the EBU's transition to Pay-to-Play – we'd welcome any members to feed in comments and suggestions as the system develops.

In this issue...

We have a report on this season's 'A' team performance in the Eastern Counties League, with contributions from Peter Burrows, and Graeme Robertson gives us some hands from the Portland Bowl final. Chris Jagger writes about the National Pairs Final and gives us some tips on Lebensohl and its alternatives.

Aunt Agony tears her hair out again after a letter from her uncontrollable nephew, and there's a full round-up of results from national, county and club competitions.

County A team wins Eastern Counties League

by Chris Jagger

For the first time this millennium Cambs has won the ECL, although its C team did win the league in 2006–07.

Peter and Myra Burrows have done sterling service for the county A team over the years, and Peter sent in a couple of interesting hands from one of the earlier matches of this season:

NS Vul	♠ 732
Dealer W	♥ J105

			♣ KJ94

W	N	E	S
1NT	P	2♦	2♠
3♦	P	P	X
P	3NT	Passed out

Sitting North, Peter judged well to suppress his three-card spade support, and 3NT duly rolled in with an overtrick. 4♠ was found at most other tables, going one down as it has the same four top losers as 3NT.

NS Vul	♠ 85

On this second hand, West opened 1♥ and reached 3NT. North started with ♥K, partner playing ♥9 to show an even number. So now the problem was to find partner's entry. East had shown diamonds, so he reasoned that West was more likely to lack the ♦A than a black ace – and declarer then quickly wrapped up nine tricks.

In fact, while it may be true that partner is more likely to have ♦A, if he does have it then 3NT will be beaten anyway, as declarer cannot have more than eight tricks. Thus a black suit switch is called for. So which one? In fact a spade is the most likely bet, as for declarer to have nine tricks without the ♣A, requires him to have four spades as well as running diamonds.

Last match of the season, Cambs needed 15–5 to seal their victory in the League, and I found myself having a rare outing with my wife – as the team captain said, our playing in the A team should bolster the B team!

One curious board found us the only A team pair to go negative on the NS cards – the key to stopping out of game at other tables appeared to be to open a game forcing 2♣!

The common auction seemed to be to open the South hand with a game forcing 2♣ opener, and for the auction to proceed 2♣-P-2♦-2♠, 3♣ all pass! Yarborough or no, it seems to me the North hand is taking a large view passing when 4H or 3NT are likely to be on. But perhaps I am just used to picking up this strength of hand!

We had a more interesting auction. What do you bid on the north hand after:

W	N	E	S
			1♣
P	P	1♠	X
P	2♥	P	2NT
P	?

It was clear that South had a big hand based on a club suit (she could have rebid 1NT otherwise, or bid another suit perhaps). Typically she will be wanting me to raise with a card in a black suit. I had cards in every suit, but not very big ones, and it seemed likely that the hand would play better in clubs, so I pulled to 3♣. South thought perhaps I might have some support to remove to 3♠, and even three small clubs would give 3NT good play, so she ploughed on to 3NT. One off.

Despite a loss on this board, the rest of the team were pulling their weight, and we'd soon chalked up 20-0 to secure the A team's pole position.

Cambridge University wins Portland Bowl

by Graeme Robertson

For the first time since 2004, Cambridge University has won the universities' knockout competition, beating Oxford in the Final. It is the university's tenth win since the competition began in 1985.

Cambridge's team was Dave Williams, Sarah O'Connor, David Faria, Graeme Robertson, Tom Rainforth and John Haslegrave, pictured below with Giles Hargreaves, Vice Chairman of the Portland Club, which hosts the Final.

The first hand demonstrates how aggressive doubling produced a decisive swing to Cambridge. The second features aggressive bidding and bold declarer play.

I kicked off with ♠K then ♠10, both of which were ducked, and switched to a club. Tom won his ♣K, and continued with a spade, which Joe won.

Now Joe led a diamond to the King, a club to the Queen, and another diamond up. Thinking that I had doubled with good diamonds, he played the ♦9 from dummy which lost to the doubleton 10.

Tom could now cash his spades and we came to a heart trick at the end for +500. Teammates made 3NT, so we gained 14 imps on the board (and the final winning margin was in fact 13 imps).

			1♥
2♥	3♥	4NT	X
5♣	P	P	X
P	P	P

Tom's 2♥ overcall showed spades and a minor, and I bid 4NT pick a minor.

The defence failed to lead trumps at any stage – East led ♥A and switched to a diamond. Tom won this and played ♠K. South won this and tried a second diamond.

Tom ruffed, ruffed two spades and two diamonds, ruffed a third spade with the Ace and played his final trump off the dummy, taking the winning club finesse on the way for 5♣X=.

This gained us 12 imps on the board, and if Tom had gone more than one off we would have lost the match.

Cambridge University also won the 2010 Varsity Match and Undergraduate Varsity Match

Aunt Agony's post bag

Dear Auntie,

As you predicted, our editrix required a break from the trials of sitting opposite me, and her loyal spouse recently stepped into her dancing shoes. This hand is from the Beds Swiss Teams:

Dealer N	♠ A8752
Game all	♥ —
	♦ K10752
	♣ KJ6
♠ J		♠ Q10963
♥ AK1098643		♥ Q5
♦ 94		♦ J6
♣ 94		♣ Q875
	♠ K4
	♥ J72
	♦ AQ83
	♣ A1032

At both tables, the bidding went

W	N	E	S
	1♠	P	2♣
4♥	5♣	All Pass

Partner led ♥K and I had ample time to consider whether or not to unblock the ♥Q as declarer could easily hold ♥J10x(x),

I followed small when dummy ruffed with ♣6. This was not a success. Declarer played ♣K and ran ♣J. He then crossed to hand, cashed ♣A and played diamonds.

I ruffed and led ♥Q, but alas, with hearts blocked we could only take one heart trick. Should I have unblocked ♥Q?

Even had I played ♥Q at trick one, this would not have availed against teammate's line. At the other table, she crossed to hand at trick two and finessed ♣J.

East won but was helpless – whether he returned a trump or led a second heart, there was only one more trick for the defence.

You always used to say I didn't understand trump control, but at least I can appreciate it.

Your uncontrollable nephew

Dear Nephew,

As usual, your jejune discussion omits the interesting features of the hand. First of all, N/S are cold for 6♦; even 7♦ can make, but you clearly don't want to be in it when as we shall see the other table may go down in game. North is somewhat short on values, and the 5♣ bid is very committal.

Don't forget that South could have a 3433 shape. Either a double or 4NT suggesting either minor is more flexible.

Perhaps soundest would be a pass, allowing South to reopen with a double. North then can bid 4NT over which South might well essay 6♦. At least they'd have reached the easy 5♦ game. But let's return to 5♣.

The idea of trump control is to retain a controlling trump, either a high card or a long card. Is that so hard? As to your defence, it is not hard to construct hands where dropping ♥Q at trick 1 is disastrous, so I will not criticise you too harshly. However, you might consider that it only makes a difference when South holds the Jack, and the odds are that partner would then hold the 10. An important consideration though, is that playing the Queen would simplify declarer's task greatly by telegraphing the 8-2 heart split.

So let us put ourselves in declarer's shoes and assume hearts are known to be 8-2 and try to make with clubs 2-4.

You neglect to mention the suit in which your team-mate crossed to hand at the other table. As the cards lie, crossing in spades allows a fatal spade ruff. But even had she crossed to hand with a diamond before taking a club finesse, a competent defender such as myself would HAVE ALLOWED ♣J TO HOLD. This would keep trump control and set the contract. Say she now returns to hand and ruffs a heart, crosses a 3rd time to cash ♣A and run the diamonds. You ruff the 3rd round and do not fall into the trap of drawing trumps with ♣Q.

Instead, you knock out ♠A, ruff the 4th round of diamonds and the long diamond is cut off.

So can declarer make? Double dummy, it's not hard. Declarer could discard a spade at trick 1 – a hold-up play, more common in no trumps to cut communications. Alternatively, he could ruff with ♣J, finesse ♣10, ruff another heart with ♣K, cross to hand with ♦A, cash ♣A and concede two trump tricks. But both these lines assume hearts are 8-2.

If declarer ruffs low at trick 1, and South follows with ♥Q, giving away the 8-2 break, declarer must decide whether to play North for a 1-8-2-2 or 2-8-1-2 shape.

If North has a stiff spade as in the actual lie, having ruffed at trick 1, South can make by crossing twice in diamonds, once to ruff a 2nd heart and once to cash ♣A.

If North has a stiff diamond though, crossing once in spades and once in diamonds is successful. After a heart ruff, ♣K, ♦A, heart ruff, ♠K, ♣A, the diamonds are run. South has to follow three times to diamonds and can only ruff the 4th and 5th which does no good.

It is a curious fact that honours with their seductive finessing lures can distract one from the proper play. If West had held ♠J instead of dummy, it would have been obvious to ruff two hearts in dummy to exhaust East of the suit. Then you cash ♣AK and play off winners, hoping to lose two trump tricks only.

Yours with impeccable self-control,

Auntie.

Variations on a theme of Lebensohl

by Chris Jagger

Suppose the auction starts 1NT from partner, 2♠ overcall, and you bid 3♣. Does this show a hand that wants to play 3♣, or a hand that wants to show clubs in order to explore the right game? This is quite a problem situation, and the most popular way round this is to play Lebensohl.

This means 3♣, 3♦ and 3♥ are natural and forcing, and a hand that just wants to compete at the three level starts with 2NT, which instructs opener to bid 3♣, after which responder can pass with clubs, or convert to his suit.

You also assign meanings to bidding 2NT and following up with 3NT, such as wanting to play in game but without a stop, or showing four cards in the other major. For example:

1NT-(2♠)-2NT = asks opener to bid 3♣

1NT-(2♠)-3♣/♦/♥ = natural (5+), GF

1NT-(2♠)-3♠ = have you got a stop?

1NT-(2♠)-3N = I have a stop

The continuations after 1NT-(2♠)-2NT-3♣ are then:

Pass = I wanted to compete with clubs

3♦/3♥ = natural and to play

3♠ = I have 4 hearts but no stop, GF

3NT = I have 4 hearts and a stop, GF

When opponents overcall in hearts there is only one difference, as you can now also compete in spades at the two-level:

1NT-(2♥)-2♠ = competing, 5+ spades

1NT-(2♥)-2NT-3♣-3♠ = inv, 5+ spades

1NT-(2♥)-3♠ = GF, 5+ spades

Tip: Some people worry about having lost their natural 2NT, and use double to show this type of hand. Don't – that idea was invented in order to blame partner who must decide what to do over it, with little idea what length in their suit you have (which is key to deciding whether to defend or not). Instead, either play the double as for penalties, or for takeout, which will make life very much easier for partner.

Some people play a variant on the Lebensohl theme – using transfers instead, so 2NT shows clubs, 3♣ shows diamonds, and so on. This is usually known as Rubensohl, and you can use it with weak hands or strong hands. Aside from potential to forget the system (and I once had six rounds of being ultra ethical to end up in a no-play 6NT contract after a forget of this bit of system), it has little to choose from ordinary Lebensohl, with some gains and some losses from playing it. A noticeable loss which is often glossed over is the ability of opponents to make a lead-directional double of the transfer bid. The main gain is that partner immediately knows your suit – although this is rarely important on the weak hands, the main aim then being to steal a three-level contract or push opponents up a level.

Tip: Play either of these methods over Asptro or other conventional systems over 1NT. Eg 1NT-2♣-2NT is a great way of competing in a minor whilst also taking a round of bidding away from opponents to stop them finding a second fit. Don't fall into the trap of doubling 2♣ to show clubs, which allows opponents space to find their second fit, and then compete in it at the three level.

Both these systems have a problem in that there are actually three hand strengths you may have: weak, invitational, and game forcing. It will come as no surprise to those intimate with the Pagan-Jagger system file (which currently numbers zero, if you include Pagan and Jagger), that page 125 does indeed have an improvement over either of the above methods.

1NT-2♠-2NT = Normal Lebensohl, aiming to compete (or strong hands with 4 hearts and at least two spades)

1NT-2♠-3♣/♦/♥ = transfers showing ♦/♥/♣, allowing to show at least invitational values in ♦/♥ (opener completes with a minimum, or bids higher with a maximum), or game forcing values in clubs.

1NT-2♠-3♠ = 1 spade, 4 hearts, strong.

Over hearts it is slightly different:

1NT-2♥-2NT = Normal Lebensohl, aiming to compete (or game forcing with a long minor which will follow up by bidding the link major, ie 3♥ will show clubs, 3♠ will show diamonds)

1NT-2♥-3m = Invitational

1NT-2♥-3♥ = Transfer, at least invitational.

1NT-2♥-3♠ = 4 spades, 1 heart, strong.

Tip: Stick to Lebensohl – these methods come with a health warning on them – though they are good methods!

National Pairs Final by Chris Jagger

I rarely play in the National Pairs nowadays, and getting to the final I was surprised to see how few competition regulars I recognised there, but equally I felt in some departments, such as the cardplay, the standard has gone up considerably over the years. This hand gave both declarer and the opponents a chance to shine:

Love all	♠ 97432
Dealer N	♥ QJ975
	♦ 52
	♣ 7
♠ J108		♠ A6
♥ 104		♥ A83

♣ K9642		♣ AQ1085
		♠ KQ5
		♥ K62
		♦ AKJ94
		♣ J3

We were defending 3♥, and East led the ♠A and another. I followed with the 8 and 10, showing suit preference. Do you see what declarer's next move should have been? If you don't, cut out the hand from this newsletter and see if that gives you any clues.

In fact the answer is to play A, K and J of diamonds, pitching a club. Now East can never put his partner in to get a spade ruff – a scissors coup, as you are cutting the communications.

Declarer actually played a trump, and that left East with a difficult choice – spades had never been mentioned in the auction, so it was hard to believe that the 8 was a low card. He cashed his ace of clubs, and it was now too late to get a ruff.

E/W Vul	♠ 986
Dealer S	♥ AJ94
	♦ K86
	♣ 932
♠ J1074		♠ AKQ2
♥ Q1063		♥ K8752
♦ Q109		♦ A2
♣ Q6		♣ 107
		♠ 53
		♦ J7543
		♣ AKJ854

This hand shows how to cater for people psyching against you – even if they haven't! The auction was:

W	N	E	S
			P
P	1♥	1NT	X
P	2♣	X	P
2♠	P	P	3♣
3♥	P	4♥	5♣
X	All Pass

1♥ was part psyche and part bid for the lead, but a poor time to do it when so flat. 2♣ was an attempt at rescue, for all the lack of suit, and the double of 2♣ was for take out.

West duly bid his spades. He was weighty for a mere 2♠, but didn't really want to drive any further. In addition, with his partner having club shortage it was likely that South would have length and compete – and sure enough he did. Now West tried 3♥ natural (2♥ would also have been natural on the previous round, using 3♣ as a cuebid if needed), and East raised to 4♥.

Generally when the opponents open a suit, you only play in their suit with at least a nine-card fit, although on this occasion even the nine-card fit was not enough, with the hearts splitting badly and North having some good intermediate trumps. It didn't matter – South bid on, and 500 was collected.

♠ 43		♠ AKJ1072
♥ QJ109863		♥ A7
♦ —		♦ J108
♣ AKQ5		♣ J10

This hand restored my faith in people's bidding: 1♠-2♥-2♠-5♥-6♥. A weakish-looking pair had a very nicely judged, natural auction to 6♥, and were rewarded with a near top.

Love all	♠ AKQ764
Dealer N	♥ 762
	♦ K3
	♣ 54
♠ 953		♠ J1082
♥ 84		♥ Q93
♦ Q872		♦ A4
♣ 9876		♣ AKQ10
		♥ AKJ105
		♦ J10965
		♣ J32

The very next board we got another near bottom. 1♥-1♠-2♦-4♠. With near solid trumps and three small hearts I didn't like to raise hearts, as there would be a lot of hands where that is wrong, particularly where partner had a weak heart suit.
